ROCKER'S DELIGHT!

There seems to be quite a few conflicting ideas as to exactly what is reggae. To be precise reggae is that 'RHYTHM' that stimulates the most delicate tissues of the whole human anatomy. Not all Reggae is fast likewise it's not always slow. The type of reggae that is most appealing is the type that is most accepted in your environment. I have discovered that there are no limitations as to who play reggae - music is universal so once you have the "ridim" then, there you go. A classic example of the genius in the ridim-feeling is the Clash!. Check out Armagideon Times - same Rockers - ridim feeling but more up-tempo to match the audience to which the Clash is more directed to. A generation of vibrant energetic music lovers. Some groups now are playing ska and, calling it reggae -nonsense!!

The trick about reggae is that you have to know its ethnic origin — try and OVER-STAND what audience you have in mind then direct the "ridim" without too much improvisations to them they will accept it if it's pulsating enough to start them toe-tapping and finger-snapping!!

Look everyone is Rocking!!!
DYNAMITE!!!??!!

TERROR swept through an Army barracks during a Night of the Devil.

Five of the recruits involved were so shaken they quit the Army after...

Wildman and another soldier arrived late at night with a book on black magic.

Wildman, his friend and five other recruits stripped to the waist.

"They put the light out and lit a candle," said... "Then Wildman and this other fellow said they were going to bring the Devil into the room."

"For the next half hour they kept up a sort of mumbo-jumbo."

Collapsed

"Then the chap seemed to go mad banging his head on the wall. He collapsed on the floor and was helped out."

"He was foaming at the mouth and growling like a dog."

Andrew Cunningham, now a trainee supermarket manager, told "howling like werewolves" all night at the barracks, a training depot for the Royal Pioneer Corps.

"I wanted to get out fast. This bunch were staffing hell out of everybody," said Andrew.
